EDITORIAL.

Prior to the enactment of the Internal Revenue laws, no one outside of a Kentucky distillery could have assurance of buying pure bourbon whiskey.
Those laws now come between the dis-tiller and the consumer as an insurance a guaranty and a warranty. Thus—The mash is put in the mash-tub under the eye of an officer of the United States.
It passes through the still under the eye of an officer of the United States. It is barrelled, inspected, gauged, marked, branded, and when freed from bond, delivered by an officer of the United States. The marks and brands and accompanying official papers designate each separate cask, the name, place, and district of the maker, and dates of handling. The benefit of this governmental supervision of the manufacture and trade is most marked in this "bourbon region." Ever since the first settlement of Kentucky this whiskey has been famous, and so real and sure was the foundation of its popularity that today it is known to the exclusion of all others as the whiskey for drinking and other such purposes. Heretofore, the public although they preferred "bourbon" whenever they wanted whiskey for family or personal uses, could have no real assurance of the genuineness of what was given them as such, for the country was full enough of unscrupulous men who would brand whiskey made any where and of any quality "Old Bourbon" and no one would be the wiser.

The effect of the supervision of the government is displaying itself in this region, in the number and extent of the distilleries in operation and process of erection, and shows at once two things; first that the demand for Kentucky Bourbon is real and firmly established, and second that the trade will have no spurious articles so long as they are protected and guaranteed in dealing in the genuine.

While in Cincinnati last week we went to see Lotta, at Wood's Theatre.
At the close of the piece, upon turning to go out, we were horrified to observe what, had it occurred to us as we went in, would have marred our enjoyment for the evening, had it not indeed compelled us as a matter of principle to go back and forego the anticipated pleasure of hearing and seeing the little charmer.

There is a truth and a right and a fairness involved in all the transactions of men by whatever means or for whatever purpose they be brought in contact, whether direct or indirect, or to a greater or lesser degree, that no one can ignore or forego without doing injustice to himself and violence to a matter of principle.

We were horrified at discovering that the outlet to the Theatre was so difficult of access, and so narrow and steep and high, that no trifling accident or panic could occur in the audience that would not surely result in loss of life or limb, and no serious one that would not as surely cost the lives of the greater number of whoever should be so unfortunate as to be present on such an occasion, whether great or small, strong or feeble, man or woman.

As we stood patiently waiting for the crowd to move out by the steep narrow stairs, we estimated that the house could burn up three times while being emptied on an occasion like this with no undue excitement or haste. And we could not but estimate the effect of a fire behind the scenes on some night when like this the house should be packed above and below—the wild rush of strong men trampling down all in their way—the shrieks and frantic cries and hubbub and fierce struggles of an ungovernable mob of furious men and women struggling like wild beasts to reach the stairway, only to be pitched down it headlong and crushed to death by the frantic mob behind them.

This theatre is only biding its time to go out of existence some fine night in a conflagration sending to the skies in its smoke and glare, the horrid incense of the burning bodies of a thousand men, women and children.

We advise our readers by all means to keep away from this theatre. In case of accident, even those nearest the stairway could not escape, for they would be trampled to death by those behind them. Those near the center would be doomed without hope. That the city authorities do not indict this theatre, is no warrant that it is all right and safe.
It is a proper matter for the press to indict and hold up to the indignation and scorn of the people, without whose consent and support such death-trap can not live for a day.

It has been suggested that it would be well for Kentucky people to concentrate on two or three stopping places in Cincinnati so that they could take for granted that friends in the city could be found or heard of at one or the other of them.

In making such rendezvous, preference should of course be given to houses that are bidding for Kentucky custom, for in everything the man who solicits your custom will treat you at least as well as he who does not.

Mr. Thurston, formerly of Paris, is bidding for Kentucky custom and keeps his house, the Metropolitan, full of Kentucky people. This house charges $2 per day and is in every respect fully equal to the best second class city hotels.
Messrs. Drown & Sweny of the Spencer are bidding also for Kentucky custom.
Theirs is a strictly first class house equal to the best and in point of attention to guests perhaps superior to any hotel in Cincinnati. Their charges are higher than the Metropolitan and although in many respects superior to the "grand, gloomy, and peculiar" Burnet, its charges are half a dollar a day less than that house.

These two hotels are near each other, are near the river, and are near the bridge. Between them they offer everything our people visiting the city could reasonably desire. If to be treated well and save a few dollars be the object the Metropolitan is at your service, if greater style and equal safety and good treatment be desired, there is the Spencer.

These proprietors having guaranteed personally to us that they would protect their guests from imposition, and in every way treat them kindly; if they should fail in their promise we will hold them to account to us, for we will not trifle with the interests of our readers, nor be made a medium for inquiring on any one.

We cannot too earnestly call the attention of our people to the fact that they ought under all circumstances to give preference to home dealers and producers, to those at a distance. Our merchants here can and we believe they do sell everything in their line as low as the same quality of article can be got for at the river especially when freight and trouble are counted in. In addition to that there is another and even better reason why home should have the preference. You know the dealers here and they know you. Their word is good for whatever they say. They helped build the town, they invest their money here and are of the people. They have more interest in dealing fairly with you than they have in taking any little mean advantage of you. They expect to see you again. Now this is not so with distant towns. There is another reason, when you leave ten dollars in Cynthi-ana or in any of our home towns, you have a chance to see it again. The merchant or mechanic to whom you give it for value received will want directly or indirectly something that you have for sale, and the very money you paid him will enable him to buy. Now when you go off to buy things that you can get at home you rob yourself. You help to that extent to make times hard and ten to one you get caught in a pinch for a few dollars that might have come back to you a dozen times had you left it where it could get back. This thing looks small in detached cases, but put all together it might make a difference of a hundred thousand dollars in the amount of money in circulation in the county in the course of two or three months. In unity there is strength, and our people must hang together if all generally and each individually would do well.

At a meeting of the members of the Turnpike, leading from Cynthiana to the Scott line, via. Cornersville, held in the Court House in Cynthiana, Feb.
20, 1869, the following board of officers were nominated and unanimously elected: Elijah Kirtley, President; Wm. B.
Renaker, A. P. Boyers, Jas. Tobbs and Louis L. Conner Directors.

Motion was made and seconded that Mr. Kirtley take the Chair.

Motion was made by Mr. Boyers that a committee be appointed to canvass the city of Cynthiana for the benefit of our road, carried. Wesley Ammerman, Jas. Tobbs and Abbot Wigglesworth were appointed.

Motion by Jas. Tobbs, that every stock holder is authorized to take subscriptions; seconded, and carried.

Motion made and seconded that the shares be $50; carried.

On motion the meeting adjourned sine die.

A. CONNER, Recording Sec'y.

To our friends who travel back and forth to Missouri, we can recommend the old reliable Ohio & Mississippi Railroad, which is a direct, cheap and responsible line. This road makes close connections and has every appliance for the comfort of its passengers.

Cynthiana wants more brick makers and layers. Although a hundred houses will be begun within thirty days, there is not a brick for sale at any price. Mechanics of all kinds can come to Cynthiana without any hesitation.
There will be more work done here this season than has been done in the last five years.

Among the projects on foot for Cynthiana are, a railroad to Carlisle, another to Georgetown, various turnpikes, a new bank, an insurance company, a joint-stock building company, a brewery, a joint-stock institution of learning, a co-operative company, another bridge, and various private enterprises in the way of building numerous and costly residences, mills and tenements.

CYNTHIANA, KY.,
THURSDAY FEB. 25, 1869.

Is it not a little strange that our brethren of the press do not notice the triumph of the people over the railroad? Can it be because they did not assist in the fight that they are now mute over the victory? Who are these editors? What are they? How comes it that they have charge of the people's press, and yet are silent in the people's interests. Does a paper support its people, or the people their paper? Which is master, and which servant?

It is pretty good when a paper can keep its mouth shut while its patrons want it to speak. Whenever a newspaper neglects wilfully to express the sentiments of its supporters, or in any way grossly neglects their interests, it loses its claim upon them, and not only is not entitled to their support, but deserves their opposition individually and collectively. A community by sustaining a paper with its patronage that takes part against them, or that fails to take part for them, simply rob themselves. If the people support the paper it should support the people. If it supports a corporation with which the people are in conflict, let the corporation pay it,—and the people also if they are fools. These must be high and grand gentry who stand by with their hands in their pockets, puffing a corporation that the people say is robbing them. What claims have they upon the people for support. Who are they? What manner of men are they? Upon what meat have they fed, that they have grown so great? If they puff the road, let the road puff their pockets.

We hope it is not a petty jealousy against Harrison county that makes them so mute. Governor Stevenson is reported to have said that nobody was making a fuss about the road except Harrison. Nobody built much of the road except Harrison. A Harrison paper made the fight here, and the Senator from Harrison made the fight at Frankfort. Good friends do not be afraid of making Harrison prominent in your little sheets. She is taking her true position before the world as the leading county in Kentucky, and nothing you can say will either put her ahead or set her back a particle. Fear not little ones.

We appear this week as the organ of the People and the Kentucky bourbon whisky trade. These interests are in no way in conflict but harmonious and identical. There is little surplus money in this part of Kentucky that is not in one way or other invested or interested in whisky. This is the leading interest here, and it is making the country both rich and famous. Its influence is not limited to the private interests of the distillers or dealers, but reaches in some way every art and occupation that is plicated amongst us.

The erection of another mammoth distillery here is like opening another vein of mineral in a mining center. It increases the demand for labor, and home produce, and brings here to be a part of our general wealth, the profit between the cost of manufacture and sale price. As it is sold to distant buyers, it draws this profit money of course from strangers, and increases our wealth and business facilities absolutely to that extent.

Besides all this it increases our appearance of prosperity which is as attractive in a town or community as in an individual, and in the same way of material and monied benefit. It encourages increase of population, additional enterprise, new kinds of manufactures and general public spirit and improvement.

Big CEDAR, HARRISON Co., Ky., Feb. 16, 1869.

Messrs Editors:
As you have done a good job in advocating the reduction of high toll on the K. C. Railroad, I wish to call your attention to the high toll and bad condition of the Cynthiana, Buddies Mills and Millersburg Turnpike road. Having had occasion to do some hauling over that road last week, I was charged 24 cents per mile for a four horse team. I could scarcely pull the load over the two mile I traveled on account of the bad condition of the road. I hauled the same load from Oddville, a distance of six miles, with comparative ease and on a much better road at a cost of tollage not quite 16 cents per mile. Now Messrs Editors why is this difference? If it is lawful for the Buddies Mills road to charge 24 cents per mile with its road dreadfully out of repair, it is all right; but if it is not lawful, it is all wrong. By answering through your valuable paper you will much oblige the traveling public, and a subscriber,

THOS. A. ROBERTSON.

A certain Paris paper says it is informed by Mr. Keith, the president of the Kentucky Central Railroad, that it is the intention of the road to contest the late act of the Legislature reducing its freight charges, and that if it does not win, "it will amount to a prohibition of local freights."

Upon this vile threat the aforesaid paper has no comment to make. We have. We say now to the Kentucky Central, that whenever it undertakes to prohibit Harrison county freight from passing over it at lawful rates, or under any circumstances, that it will feel, and quickly, the heavy hand of an outraged and indignant people.

In all that we have said about this road, as the organ of the people and defender of their rights under the law, we have softened their manner of speaking of it, and have never expressed fully their bitter indignation and hate of it and its managers.

"The road will stand by the law then if the law will agree with it!" otherwise it will not carry way freight! Pretty good for the road. If it does not conform to the law; if it refuses to carry Harrison county freight; and afterwards runs a train through Harrison county, it can have our best hat upon demand.

While in Covington last week, Mr. Keith told us he would like to make an agreed case before the courts, so that the question between the road and the people could be decided authoritatively without expensive delay. He expressed to us a perfect willingness to abide the decision of the court—which he could not help do. He did not intimate to us the threat made through the paper aforesaid.

The scaring faculties of Harrison have been overestimated somewhere in this connexion. Who has made the mistake it is not worth while here to surmise.

O! terrible man! will you indeed do what you say?

To our friends at home and abroad who have sent us various communications and articles for publication, we tender our thanks and request a continuance of their favors. Sometimes like the present, some that we would especially like to insert are necessarily crowded out. If our friends will please continue to send nevertheless, and permit us to retain their articles and insert them whenever our space will permit, we will be specially obliged. Those we have shall appear whenever we can get them in. One particularly, from Rev. B. N. Carter, of Williamstown entitled "Recollections No. 2."

It may be as well to say here for the benefit of the new hands into which we will fall this week in various parts of the United States, that this is our first issue as the organ of the Kentucky bourbon whisky trade; that we have heretofore been known as the HARRISON Democrat, of which most business men of the United States have heard by seeing whisky articles copied from it into the leading Cincinnati, New York, Chicago and New Orleans papers, as well as the country press generally. The whisky cards that appear this week are the result of a single weeks solicitation, and but a beginning of what we expect.

In the matter of transient advertisements, those like things "for sale," which people want inserted a few times only, our terms are lower than our neighbor papers although we print more and are read by more people than any of them. Instead of measuring our space by the line, we measure it by the inch, so that any one can estimate the cost of anything he wants to advertise by ordering certain matter to be put in a certain number of inches for a certain number of times or months. For an inch of space one insertion we charge 75 cents, and for each subsequent insertion 50 cts, or 12 months for $12. If a paper that prints 750, charges the same rates even that we do, and we print 1,500, which is the better investment? Please think of this and count it up.

The Legislature has chartered a branch railroad from this place to Mt. Sterling, and on to Frankfort via, Cynthiana. If we are to judge from the movements of the of Harrison county people, we think it will not be long before the road to Cynthiana will be made. The Whisky interests of that county, alone, demand the road. As we have one of the most productive corn counties in the State, it would be well for the distillers of Harrison to subscribe liberally to the enterprise and urge its early completion, as when finished, they could get this great necessary at half the present cost and trouble. Go on gentlemen of Cynthiana and Harrison with the good work and may success attend your undertaking.—Carlisle Mercury.

According to information from the Internal Revenue Department the low tax on whisky has been a decided success. It is estimated upwards of forty million dollars will be derived from this source during the fiscal year exclusive of the amount paid in on account of whisky in bond.

We clip from the Lexington, Kentucky Gazette, the following handsome compliment to our young county-man, who is a student at Washington College, Lexington, Va:

At the anniversary of Graham Society connected with Washington College among others who spoke was Lucius Desha, Jr., of Harrison Co., Kentucky, and a correspondent sends us the following sketch of his speech. Our correspondent speaks in the highest terms of the youthful orator and says he has greatly distinguished himself in College. He is a son of General Lucius Desha, and brother of Capt. Joe Desha, C. S. A., well known for his gallantry during the "late unpleasantness," by the members of Hanson's Brigade.

"Is the maxim 'OUR COUNTRY RIGHT OR WRONG' a justifiable one?" He showed the importance of a motto as a national educator; and claimed that a true one should embody the purest principles expressed in the most unambiguous terms.

He urged as objections to the one in question that it placed "our country" superior to the principles which should perpetuate and protect it; that it erects a false standard of morality, and sets at defiance the laws of God; that it justifies in nations and by the same principle in individuals that which is wrong; that it leads to fanaticism and, under the idea that the will of the people is the law of the land, sanctions and encourages the unjust oppression of minorities; takes away religious and political toleration; destroys freedom of speech and of the press; and leaves the rights of individuals at the mercy of the mob.

He maintains that by pledging unqualified support to country, and therefore to its authorized governments the minds of rulers are filled with the idea of their supremacy, and the result is despotism; that when governments become corrupt they cannot be changed or brought back to the right except by opposition.

He insisted that this was not a question of opposition, but of support; that although a man should not take up arms alone against his government, still it is his duty to oppose the wrong wherever found; and that common sense and his obligations to God and man must determine the mode and extent of this opposition; he must not by silence consent to error, much less uphold and maintain it; and according to his influence and ability is he responsible for his conduct in this regard; that great revolutions had been achieved by individuals; that it was not for any man to deny his duty, his calling and his mission, which are always to maintain the right. And in conclusion, he proclaimed it false patriotism to follow and encourage "our country in the wrong."

Our correspondent adds: He did not fail to elicit repeated applause. It was in the depth of winter. I noticed that several beautiful bouquets were presented by the darlings. I may state that Mr. Desha sustains equally as high a position in his classes as in the debating society. Nay, he stands even higher. The prospects are quite good for him to receive the Robinson Prize Medal as evidence of his attaining the highest degree of general scholarship among the graduates in the schools of Latin, Greek and Mathematics.

The number of Kentucky students here is about forty-five, and as a body, they acquitted themselves handsomely at the Intermediate Examinations just finished.

COLUMBIA, ADAIR Co., Ky., Feb. 20th, 1869.

Editor Cynthiana Democrat:

I take the liberty to write briefly on a subject which I think your county as well as ours feels great interest in, to-wit: The Nicholasville Kentucky and McMinville Tennessee, Railroad now being warmly discussed. We are anxious to build this important road opening up a market with Cincinnati, and connecting the North and South, making a short and direct line, and a paying road,—which is beyond doubt. Some 12 years ago, this road was surveyed from Danville, Ky., to McMinnville, Tenn., and pronounced good and practicable, and from some unknown cause it fell. Now our farmers are very anxious for it to spring up again and we think if Cincinnati and yourad, joining counties will assist us, we will build it. It passes through good average counties as the two States have, in point of soil and coal and oil. As tobacco and wheat growing counties, we are more than average, and the only thing we need is this Road. Tennessee is now building her part to the Kentucky line, and shall it stop there? I hope and think not. Last Summer we voted a tax for the Elizabethtown, Ky., and Sparta Road, but this has been killed by Cumberland County, and Larue voting against it. Out of five counties on the route Cumberland is in favor of this Road. A glance at the map will show the importance of this route crossing Cumberland River, at or near Burksville, Ky.

As an old farmer and citizen with many others, you will oblige us if it meets your notion to urge this. We are in earnest.

Very Respectfully,
ADAIR Co., FARMER.

From the Georgetown Times.
Ten years ago the population of Georgetown was greater than that of Paris—our business larger than that of Paris. How stands the case today? Paris has troubled her population and business, and Cynthiana is going ahead with a rush truly surprising. And look at busy little Midway, that will soon outstrip old foggy Versailles—a second Georgetown. Call to mind all the railroad towns in the State, and contrast them with towns that do not possess these advantages. See what the railroad has done—will continue to do, for Richmond, Elizabethtown and many others we might mention.

Talk to our people about the necessity of a railroad, and nine out of ten will readily admit it, but admissions and talk without a corresponding effort won't help along the enterprise. If our people want a railroad, and we believe they do, now is the time to work for it, and not a day is to be lost. This is our last and our only chance. If the opportunity is neglected it will not present itself again. There will probably be a contest between Bourbon and Harrison for the road from Carlisle. If Bourbon gets it Scott will lose it. An earnest and immediate effort and co-operation between Harrison and Scott are necessary—the quicker that effort assumes some definite shape the better. We promise the Harrison Democrat to co-operate heartily with it, and to the best of our ability, in its efforts to push forward this great proposed enterprise.

This is a proverb current in European countries which runs as follows: "By the road of by-and-by one arrives at the town of Never," this seems to me admirably suited to the intellectual digestion of every one in the community who is directly or indirectly interested in educational affairs. During the past year there have been many indications of a wholesome dissatisfaction with the existing educational status of the community, and of an aspiration after something better. Recently however, these lamentations have become more subdued in tone and the whispers of a "college" have become fainter until there appears to be reasonable grounds to fear that they may soon die away altogether, and with them the hopes to which they gave origin. That this will not be the fault of the Democrat, the able and sensible articles which have recently appeared in its columns are a sufficient attestation. They strike directly at the root of the whole matter, the primary and essential prerequisite of any considerable or valuable advance in an elevation of the standard of home training and a more intelligent cooperation with the teacher.

As there seems to be a vagueness in some quarters, and in others a contrariness of opinion respecting the educational requirements of the place, permit me to submit a few reflections which seem favorable to the establishment upon a permanent basis of a city free school, and with it a first class High school in preference to a college. In the first place, such an educational provision is level to the requirements of the majority. There are few that have the time, the means and the inclination to complete a regular collegiate curriculum. How many of the youths of Harrison county have in times past gone forth to drink of the springs of Knowledge which are vulgarly supposed to flow fast by college walls. If we had such an institution in our midst now, how many are there who are prepared to participate in its advantages? As a local enterprise, untrammelled by any sectarian bias, and unassisted by religious or denominational influence, it must depend upon local patronage, because students from abroad will naturally flow to institutions of greater age and reputation, to graduate at which, we will confer some prestige. Then, have we the local patronage to justify a college, to build it up, and render it valuable? As each individual answers this question in his own mind, so will he be in favor of or against the proposed movement. I think it is greatly to be feared that, were all financial difficulties removed, which, however, will not be found to be the least in the way, and the "college" placed on a permanent footing, it would add another to the already too numerous, languishing, equivocal affairs of the kind which we have in this country,—neither college nor grammar school, but performing, and very imperfectly, the functions of both.

The article of education issued at which reminds one of very forcibly of the Spanish dish "olla podrida,"—composed of a little of everything and very little of anything. Almost every village in the State can boast its college, which confidently promises to unfold to the tender tyro, all the mysteries of science and the whole range of human philosophy, beginning with Webster's spelling book and concluding with Newton's Principia. But High Schools modestly circumscribing themselves within the limits of their capabilities are few indeed, like Aeneas' shipwrecked mariners.

"Rare! apparent nautas in gurgite casto." The great characteristic of the nation does not desert us here, as in most other things, so also in educational matters we are too fast. We desire to become butterflies without first being chrysalides; we clamor for colleges and universities rivaling Oxford, Cambridge and Heidelberg and entirely ignore the gymnasia of Germany, and Elton and Rugby and the other great primary schools of England; but "vaulting ambition o'erleaps itself" and facts as familiar as household words prove that we are sacrificing thoroughness for the sake of outward semblance.

The free school system is to well known and appreciated to need explanation or defense. It is for primary education at least, rapidly superseding all others. Most of the cities of one Commonwealth have tested it and with distinguished success. As one grand feature of the Christian religion is that the poor have the gospel preached them, so a distinguishing characteristic of the civilization of the day is that the poor are to be educated.—Let us keep step with the progress of the age. THE DEMOCRAT.

JAMES M. PARRISH, Publisher.

THURSDAY, FEB. 25, 1869.

Poetry.

For the Cynthiana Democrat.

MY WIFE.

When I am overwhelmed with cares, Or sunk in grief, or drowned in tears, There's one who all my sorrow shares,
And weeps with me.—My wife.

When I'm forsaken by my friends, On whom my usefulness depends, There's one whose friendship never ends While life remains.—My wife.

Though slender with her poison'd dart Should pierce and wound me to the heart, There's one who stands ready to impart
The healing balm.—My wife.

When sickness racks my limbs with pain, Or wild deliriums seize my brain, There's one to soothe, when I complain, With sympathy.—My wife.

Should passion like a tempest rage, Or fiery zeal my soul engage,
Her voice will quell the storm assuage:
The voice of peace.—My wife.

When this frail mortal body lies Upon my last sick bed and dies, May she be there, to close my eyes, May heaven reward.—My wife.

HEADQUARTERS, KY., Feb. 20th 1869.

The Fair grounds and cottage was rented on Saturday last, to T. J.
Campbell, for one year for $200.

There is a gap of mud road running from Broadwells cross-roads to Townsend, a distance of two miles. If this gap was piked, trade that now goes to Georgetown in the winter season, would come here.

An Irishman in the employ of Chas. Tuls of Fayette, as a dayman, became suddenly deranged a few days since and was taken to the asylum at Lexington.

David Burk sold on Monday last, to Richard Bundy, a lot fronting fifty feet on Walnut street, running back to the railroad, for $1,518; part cash, and deferred payments, bearing 6 per cent. interest.

The Harrison House lease and fixtures are for sale, Mr. Rowland having made arrangements to take the

For short business cards we charge

John W. Urnston has sold the steam engine he advertised in this paper last week, and says he has had numerous applications since. The advertisements of this paper are so hand-somerly gotten up that people all read them.

It will be seen by reference to the head of our columns, that Mr. Musser appears this week as Editor and Manager. To prevent mistakes and delays, all communications relating to the affairs of the DEMOCRAT should be addressed to him.

Mr. Nick Moore informs us that on Tuesday next he will begin the survey of the Cynthiana and Connersville pike.
This is the opening ball for the coming season of improvements. Mr. Moore is an excellent surveyor. When the writer of this was a boy he carried "the chain" a few days for Mr. Moore while surveying the route for our railroad.

Farm lands are renting from $5 to $10 per acre. A great amount of soil land is being broken up; farmers are preparing to plant a large crop of corn.

The distilling interests here amply justify the planting of a great breadth of land in this grain. They are but in their infancy and are as sure as the demand for whisky, which is as sure as the demand for bread. It is not for us to go into a disquisition upon the morals of this question. As an organ of the manufacturing and other interests here we deal in facts as they are and the conclusions to be drawn from them.

Hon. I. T. Martin, Senator from this county, does not remember authorizing the True Kentuckian or any body else to say, that the Legislature would re-consider its action relative to the late very just reduction of way tariff on the Kentucky Central Railroad. This reduction amounts to about one third, and brings the charges of this road down to something like two or three times as much as other roads charge.

On last Sunday night, Mr. Frank McMillen, late a gallant Confederate soldier, was married to Miss Belle Cooper, both of this county, in the parlor of the Smith House. It seemed to be a runaway match, so popular in Kentucky.
From the appearance of the parties, and the number of friends who accompanied them, we have no doubt it will be as happy a one as the bride was pretty and the groom gallant.

The amateur Theatricals of last week were quite a success. 'Captain Jinks', was rendered as well as any similar piece we have ever seen on any boards. The orations of Spinolia could not have been excelled. The 'big sunflower' and 'jig' by Eugene Warnock were encored on every night. The dramas, 'Bolts and Bars,' and 'Irish Assurance' were so well cast and executed that they achieved every night that which alone can repay an amateur, the continued merriment and applause of the audience.

This society contemplate giving another series of entertainments a month or so hence, and among the plays already selected is one entitled "Ten nights in a bar-room" dramatized from one of T. S.
Arthur's temperance stories.

Of every species of exhibition, we decidedly prefer those gotten up by the young gentlemen and ladies of country towns. Of these the best are those engaged by the young ladies. They never fail. Not only are they more quick and ready in divining and rendering the characters they assume—their bright eyes and feminine graces that no audience of home people can resist—Whenever the young ladies have a hand in such entertainments, a success may fairly be considered guaranteed. Besides the order both of the arrangements and of the house is understood to be guaranteed perfect, on account of the respect of the people present for the fair actors, as well as for similar respect, for their 'big brothers,' which latter we must all frankly admit has a softening effect on the affairs of the world.

It takes young men so long to learn that drinking is not a necessary requirement of the situation, and this weakness is so well understood by the public, that only after a success or two, can these dramatic associations fairly claim the public favor.

At the entertainments of last week, the music, amateur also, was of an excellent variety and contributed largely to the enjoyment of the audience and the success of the plays.

The ball at the Smith House on last Monday night was a very superior affair. Not only was there present an array of beauty such as Kentucky so excels in, but the happiness of the evening was of that even flow that lasts so well.

We noticed with pleasure that the little drinking was done by the young men, and almost none by the ladies.
At midnight the party moved up stairs to the supper room where was spread a magnificent repast so bountifully provided, that the guests, the stray boys, the attendants and all could not make way with it. The night freight trains came along about this time and our generous host called in the men from them to partake.

One untoward and most unfortunate accident marred the happiness of the occasion. A span of nettlesome horses while crossing the bridge took fright at a drunken man, who brute like lay in the middle of it, and wheeling, turned back and ran at breakneck speed up the street, going over the river to bring ladies to the party. Mr. Geo. Williams climbed out behind, when opposite the bank, without much injury. Mr. Griffith was not so fortunate, he jumped out opposite Wittman's saloon and was unfortunate enough to break his leg. The team brought up against a tressel work at Peck, Vanhook & Co's distillery in a general smash.

The driver had jumped out in the bridge when the horses turned, to catch and hold them which in the dark and fright he failed to do. After that the gentlemen were at the mercy of the team over which they had no control and perhaps under the circumstances they did well to come out no worse.

A. W. Lydick reports property having sold on the 17th inst., at the sale of Felix Ashbrook, as follows:

20 head of two year old cattle at about 7c; gross calves $30 per head; horses from $50 to $230; hogs from 10 to 12c; corn in crib $3.50 per barrel; sheaf oats 36 cents per doz.; all other property at fair prices.

Also for Stephen Lowry, of Fayette, on the following day, his farm of 901 acres, to A. T. Carrich, for $90 05 per acre; cattle and horses at good prices; sheep $5 15 per head; hogs $10 per hundred; sheaf oats per doz. 31 cents; corn in crib $2 25 per barrel.

Also for William Bumbarger, Tuesday the 23rd inst: horses from $85 to $162; milk cows from $61 to $119 each; calves $21; Oats brought 49 cents per dozen.
Property of all descriptions sold well.
Four months credit. The day was rough and cold, with snow and sleet, yet the attendance was good, and bidding spirited.

The comparative rates of oats and corn at sales in Fayette and Harrison as indicated above suggests its own conclusion.—[ED. DEMOCRAT.

Whisky News of the Week.

Peck, Vanhook & Co., of this place will begin operations to-day with a mash of 240 bushels.

Henry Thomas, of Paris, has sold 10 1/2 barrels of his 4 year old steam copper at $6.50. The reputation of this whisky is said to be scarcely second to any "straight copper."

Dills & Ziler near this place, will begin to mash on the 1st of March.
Odds, Willmore & Co., of Nicholasville, sold 200 barrels of their make at $1.10.
Carter & McDonald are mashing 200 bushels at their new distillery, near Chilburg.

The 7th district consists of the counties of Bourbon, Scott, Nicholas, Woodford, Franklin, Fayette, Jessamine, and Lincoln.
Next after the 6th (this) the 7th is the greatest whisky district in the State.

Buckner & Bedford of Paris, sold a lot of their make at $1.10.
Castleton, of Frankfort sold 1,000 barrels steam copper at $1.25.

J. H. Lair, and Gray & Craig of this county are in full blast with their "straight copper."

The following is a comparative view of quantity made in the 7th District in January:

Bourbon: 148,216; Scott, 67,913; Nicholas, 5,539; Woodford, 38,910; Franklin, 53,118; Fayette, 48,283; Jessamine, 25,841; Lincoln, 4,912; Gallons.

We are delayed in getting the returns of quantity made and tax paid in this district (the 6th Ky.) It will appear in our next.

HOOKESTOWN, Nicholas Co., Ky., Feb. 23d, 1869.

Editors Democrat:

I send you the following items for your paper: Robert Chancy has started his distillery near this place, where he proposes to manufacture the best article of straight copper whisky.

Jones & Cheatham near here have started their distillery, with Skillman Howard as store-keeper. They also manufacture straight-copper whisky.

J. G. B.

By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that the sale of the Kimbro' farm and stock will come off on Tuesday the 2nd of March. This is one of the finest farms in Kentucky and in perfect repair and cultivation.

A part of the estate consisting of valuable Canal-land mines in Breathitt county, will be sold at the same time, separately. There will also be sold five hundred barrels of corn, and various heads of stock, and farming implements.
The place is about a mile from Cynthi-ana.

The Georgetown Times makes a very sensible suggestion that a Stage line be started between that place and this, and that this be made the point for Scott county people to reach the railroad.
There is already a good turnpike between us, the distance is comparatively short, and the good feeding of the people of this county and those of Scott could not be more appropriately displayed than in joining together by an established and regular line of travel.

The day certainly is not far distant when we will be in direct railroad connexion with Georgetown. Let us have a stage line in the meantime. Let us have a daily, a tri-weekly or a weekly to start with. There is no reason why Scott should be insulated from us. We are in their direct way to Cincinnati and the East.

Covington Live Stock Market.

COVINGTON, KY., Feb. 22, 1869.

Editor Democrat:

I have the pleasure to report the following arrivals of stock for the week ending 21st: 240 cattle, 240 sheep and 650 hogs.

Arrivals of cattle being in excess of demand. The market has ruled very dull during the entire week. We quote best butcher's stuff at 7c to 7 1/2c. Second quality 6c. 6 1/2c. Third quality (mean to common) 4 1/2c to 5 1/2c. Sales slow and but few bringing the highest quotations.
About 30 head left over unsold.

Sheep in good demand, all offered being sold at from 4 to 6c according to quality.

Arrivals of hogs unusually heavy, with but very little demand. Butchers using but few and a poor shipping demand. We quote best hogs at 10c to 11c.
The whole range of prices for hogs of all grades is from 8 to 11c. But 2 car loads (120 head) left over.
